LLM European Law & Public Affairs (One Year Full Time)

This programme offers a genuinely interdisciplinary approach to European studies, in order to analyse how our understanding of the nature of the EU is shaped by our particular disciplinary perspectives. Leading this analysis and discussion, the faculty members in the UCD Sutherland School of Law have engaged in major research across the disciplines; from the institutional structure of the EU, to critiques of existing areas of EU law such as competition law and environmental law. This interdisciplinary programme is directed at well-qualified graduates in law, politics and associated disciplines.

Graduate Profile

Graham Butler, LLM ELPA Graduate 2013

As a graduate of Business and Law, I took a keen interest in EU affairs and sought to pursue a LLM in European Law and Public Affairs at UCD. It is an ideal graduate programme for those interested in law, political, international relations, the EU and current affairs. The course offers a healthy mixture of legal subjects pertaining to the European Union, in addition to politics and international relations, which perfectly complement each other. Studying EU law in all its various forms really enhanced my education and the formulation and application of EU law throughout the EU member states. At UCD, time spent outside the lectures is just as important as the ones inside. This masters degree offers students the opportunity to develop the edge that is vital for competing in a competitive graduate environment. Having previously worked as a parliamentary assistant in Dáil Éireann, I currently am a PhD Fellow at the Centre for Comparative and European Constitutional Studies at the Faculty of Law in the University of Copenhagen where I lecture in EU International Relations Law.
