 Not available in the academic year indicated above ***

This module provides a detailed description of the theory and practice of environmental finance and investing. The module will introduce the key institutional investors, investment vehicles, trading instruments and global emission trading schemes. Key topics include but are not limited to carbon finance, carbon footprinting, fossil fuel divestment, greenbonds, greenhouse gas reporting, shareholder activism for enhanced corporate environmental responsibility, sustainable investing, the United Nations' Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) and the Social Stock Exchange (SSX). Tools and processes to raising private equity or venture capital for environmental projects will also be discussed. Recent academic research and professional development will be integrated into all aspects of this module.
